

Competition Law in Transition: Trends and Challenges

Dubrovnik, Croatia / Hotel Excelsior
15 - 17 June 2011

About

This international conference will bring together diverse speakers of the highest calibre: Regulators, judges, in-house counsel, academics, economists and private practitioners.

The conference will be held in Dubrovnik, Croatia, one of the worlds' cultural jewels, protected by UNESCO and well known for its heritage. The venue of the conference is the magnificent Hotel Excelsior (www.hotel-excelsior.hr).

The working language of the conference is English and attendance at the conference is free, subject to terms and conditions of the organizers.

In addition to the working programme, there will be valuable social and networking events, including sightseeing tours for participants and their accompanying guests.

Topics

The topics will include:

- Status and prospects of competition law in transitional economies;
- Convergence/Divergence: regional, EU and US perspective;
- Cartels and leniency;
- Abuse of dominance; and
- Merger control.

Who should attend?

The following should make sure not to miss this unique conference:

- Executives;
- Competition lawyers (private practice and in-house counsel);
- Enforcement officials;
- Academics; and
- All those involved or interested in competition law.

Registration

For further information and to register, please visit www.eventmaker.pro/dubrovnikcompetition